

Installation Steps

The installation of Event Replicator Administration on Windows and UNIX systems occurs as part of the corresponding Adabas Manager installation. During installation of Adabas Manager, you are given the option of installing Event Replicator Administration. No additional license is needed.

If you have already installed Adabas Manager, but did not install Event Replicator Administration at the time, simply rerun the Adabas Manager installation, selecting the Event Replicator Administration component during the run.

For more information about installing Adabas Manager and Event Replicator Administration, read Installing Adabas Manager.