Server Restart

This option can be used to restart your security service in the specified nucleus or daemon. All cached security information is discarded and security operation restarted. For a database, the configuration parameters are also re-read, making this option useful if you need to change any security parameters without stopping and restarting the database.