

%J - Invoke Helproutine

`%Jhelproutine`

This terminal command can be used to invoke an interactive helproutine.

When %J is used after interrupting the playback of a recording, the playback will be resumed after the helproutine has been executed (refer to the section Natural Recording Utility in the Utilities documentation).

If %J is used when a function invoked by a system command is active, Natural will search for the specified helproutine in the active library of the system command or in a library that has been defined as a steplib for the system command.
