

%I - Capture Current Screen

When you enter this command on a screen, the screen will be captured by the Page Data Set function.

The maximum number of screens that can be captured is determined by the session parameter PD. If this number is exceeded, each additional screen will overwrite one that has already been captured, beginning with the one captured first.

To display screens that have been captured with the Page Data Set function, use the terminal command %E.

See also the terminal commands %P, %O, %S, and %E.