

Workplace Management

After reading the previous sections, you may now see in a better way what the task of a workplace management inside Application Designer is: a workplace is an application on its own having the task to administer content applications both from the graphical and the session management point of view.

The workplace management is responsible for the proper assignment of subsessions to activities. The life cycle of subsessions is typically controlled by the workplace.