

Typical Page Layout

The layout of a print form typically contains the following elements:

- page
- header
- footer
- body

Header, footer and body open container areas that may hold any other controls inside.