- WST-1812
Some Salesforce.com query operation services created prior to CloudStreams 9.6 may not work with CloudStreams 9.6.
Some query operations in Salesforce cloud connector services created in CloudStreams version 9.5 or earlier may no longer work with CloudStreams 9.6, post-migration.
The affected services are those query operations that do not have a Salesforce object and its associated fields selected. Prior to 9.6, there was a provision to run a query operation simply by passing the query string, and without selecting a Salesforce object and its associated fields. Upon execution, those services will now throw the following Exception in 9.6: "Business Object missing for Salesforce query operation".
Workaround: Edit each affected service and select the desired Salesforce object and its associated fields, and save the service. Note that the query string is now automatically generated and is not available for editing.
